

Hey field workers! Heard it through the grapevine

Fed up of receiving second hand information about the company through the grapevine? Working out in the field often means you can't catch the company news that's relevant to you and your job. With Cisco Webex, there's no need to wait until the next meeting with your supervisor to get information.

Webex gives you access into all the spaces where information will be published in real time by head office.

Keep up with pay, rewards, new hires, health and safety procedures. All updates arrive on your mobile device, with notifications set to your liking.

No more fear of missing out with company news at your fingertips.

Get connected

Post questions in a space for your manager or team. Spaces can be used as discussion forums, places for announcements, best practice tips, and operational updates to be shared. When one asks, all can know.

Stay organized

See a file, image or message you're too busy to read, but might need later? Just flag it and Webex will keep it in a list you can go back during your downtime

Spread knowledge

Use spaces to upload images and files to inform co-workers. Show pictures of faulty equipment and explain repair needs. Warn about traffic, plan changes, and delivery issues.

Too much information?

If you get too many notifications, particularly in spaces with hundreds of people, you don't have to leave. Just customize your notifications or switch them off completely.
