Case Study: Transurban

Transurban is an Australian company that builds and operates toll roads internationally, employing 2,500 people who work with nearly 10,000 contractors. When it replaced its confusing patchwork of collaboration solutions with Webex, adoption took off within months.

Results

600K meeting minutes monthly
150K meeting participants
50K+ video meetings monthly
When I joined Transurban, we had one of everything. We made a very conscious decision to invest in Webex, and we moved to the cloud from Day One. For us, the biggest success (in our new HQ) was the adoption of Webex.

Jen Goeldner
Head of Workspace Technology, Transurban
Case Study: Seyfarth Shaw

With the help of Webex, the partners and teams of international law firm Seyfarth Shaw work from home, the road or the office as best suits their schedules. And Cisco’s industry-leading security means they always meet the legal industry’s heavy security compliance requirements.

Results

$10M+

in real estate savings

- Happier, more productive employees
- Improved digital security
From a security-compliance perspective, we pretty much get audited by anything you can imagine. There’s so many cloud services that I can’t use as a law firm because of the restrictions I have for compliance. We use Webex for everything.

Andy Jurczyk
CIO, Seyfarth Shaw
Case Study: Triton Health

Triton Health used Webex to develop a first-in-the-world telehealth model. Specialists connect with clients through Webex, reducing the cost of consulting with audiologists while improving access.

Results

20 more appointments per week generated

3 weeks’ reduction in clinic waiting times
(Webex Meetings) has transformed the way we work and allowed us to re-imagine the future of our business. Whatever innovative service we come up with next, we know Cisco will be able to help us turn our ideas into reality.

Craig Lett
Clinical Development Manager, Triton Health
